

EXPECT HARD COAL PEACE ON THURSDAY

HARDING TO PLACE BIG LABOR ISSUE BEFORE COUNTRY
DOMINATION OF BASIC INDUSTRY BY GROUP, IS PROBLEM.
PUBLIC CONTROL?
Coal Body Similar to Rail Board, and Strengthening of Latter, Plan.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.
Copyright, 1922, by The Janesville Gazette.
Washington—President Harding means to place squarely before the country the dangers of national domination of basic industries by labor unions. Irrespective of whether the meeting in New York Tuesday between the rail executives and the brotherhood chiefs who represent the shopmen, ends in a sudden shoving of the labor issue into the background, the president's attitude is clear.

Mr. Harding has not made up his mind as to whether legislation at this time but he feels that congress and the country should know the details of the present controversy and to have the way open for a thorough consideration of the whole problem.

Some of the president's friends have told him that he owes the American people a frank explanation of what he has tried to do and that the public should know just where he stands. On top of this are considerations of justice to the president himself, as the criticism of his course has grown to such proportions as to require a statement of his reasons. It is not likely that the president will make such a statement in the near future.

Mr. Harding has not made up his mind as to whether legislation at this time but he feels that congress and the country should know the details of the present controversy and to have the way open for a thorough consideration of the whole problem.

Leaders of All Rail Unions Confer on Strike

Representatives of every railroad union, with the exception of two, in the United States, met recently in Washington to discuss policies relative to the handling of strikes and other matters. On the extreme left is Warren C. Stone, head of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. At the extreme right is D. E. Robertson, representing the Brotherhood of Firemen and Engine Drivers.

Walworth County

ELKHORN

Much activity in the political field is to be evident in Walworth county from now until the primaries in September. The Walworth county Progressive republican club has organized a speakers' bureau with 20 prominent persons from throughout the county who will take the stump in favor of the ticket headed by Dr. W. A. Garfield and Bill Morgan.

Included in the speakers will be Clayton C. Randolph, president of the conference; George L. Harrington, former candidate for secretary of state; Dr. Christ Larson, Lake Geneva, nationally known evangelist; J. J. Phoenix, Delavan; I. B. Davies, Delavan; Grant Harrington, county clerk; Major Charles Sumner, Delavan; R. B. Bucknell, Lake Geneva; Henry Kiser, Whitewater and Rev. Ralph Mayo, of Elkhorn.

There is a battle for several of the county offices and assembly between the republicans and the La Follette candidates. Frank Lawson, Walworth, is supported by the progressive republicans, and E. O. Reynolds, editor of the Lake Geneva, is endorsed by La Follette and Blaine. The candidates in the county aligned with the state republican conference are Grant D. Harrington, veteran county clerk, opposed by Leo Dunne, a farmer and clerk of Geneva township; George Kellogg, long clerk of the circuit court, opposed for reelection by Jack White, present sheriff. Hal Wylie, who has been in the legislature, is also in the race for sheriff.

A name talk on leading questions of the day was given by Lawrence Whitte, Edgerton, candidate for congress at a district conference of the League of Women Voters held at Elkhorn Wednesday afternoon. He touched on child labor laws, on the enforcement of the 18th amendment, and the question of having a bureau of education as a federal office. He gave a thoughtful discussion of the problems connected with the present unrest in industrial conditions and a brief glimpse of the wealth of Wisconsin along agricultural lines.

The other candidates for congress from the first district, Nellie Nelson and Cong. H. A. Cooper had been invited to speak but were unable to be present. In response to a request, J. W. Page, Elkhorn, gave an informal talk on what a democratic candidate might be expected to represent. He then gave a brief glimpse of the campaign. He deplored centralization of power in the federal government and argued for state rights.

Mrs. George T. Moore, Milwaukee, brought a message from state headquarters in regard to the way things were managed in the office of the League of Women Voters. She outlined some of the things the organization is trying to accomplish, and some of the problems which they encountered in the routine of daily work. She is the organization chairman of the state.

Got Rid of Her Burning Feet

Thanks to Husband's Kindness Calluses Also Peeled Right Off, and Soft Corns Faded Away!

"For many years the burning calluses on my feet and the corns between my toes nearly drove me crazy," says Mrs. Anna Beckman. "My housework was endless torture and I was compelled to wear shoes much too large to get around at all. The terrible aches and pains almost ruined my nerves. In fact, I believe I aged ten years in the past year or two. Plasters, powders and medicated foot-baths did no good. But one day, thanks to my husband's kindness, he brought home a box of Gypsy Foot Relief, a secret from the desert. The very first time I used it, the burning stopped. Three days later the calluses peeled right off, leaving the skin soft and smooth, while the corns between my toes just seemed to fade away. The swelling went down and I can now wear shoes two sizes smaller than the ones I had to wear when my feet were in such awful shape. I really feel as if I had a pair of new feet, and I am telling all my friends and neighbors who have any foot troubles to use Gypsy Foot Relief."

BELOIT EXPECTS 10,000 WAR VETS

Gateway City Ready for Big Legion Convention Next Week.

The fourth annual convention of the Wisconsin department of the American Legion, in Beloit, August 24, 25, and 26, is expected to bring 10,000 former service men to determine league policies and select officers for the next year. The Legion auxiliary will hold its convention at the same time.

On the program of the occasion are National Commander MacNider and Major General Hahn who commanded the Thirty-Second division during the World war.

A program of entertainment arranged for the three day convention includes a circus, baseball games, band concerts and banquets. The Fairbanks-Morse baseball team will meet Kenosha, Racine and the Famous Chicagoans, while the band will play the greater part of the music for the gathering.

Arrangements have been made for a fleet of 100 automobiles, driven by 100 girls, to act as a motor transport for the visiting members of the legion. The Fire and Drum corps from Racine as well as the Beaver Post band are to be on hand for the occasion.

A large fireworks display is planned for the second night of the convention.

Several cities of the state are expected to send special cars of delegates, providing the railroad situation does not interfere. Some Southern Wisconsin cities have chartered special trains for the occasion.

Important business matters are to come before the legion during its three day session. Plans for enlarging the Wisconsin department will be made.

BELOIT MAN SUES TO RECOVER CAR

Charges Police Erred in Seizing His Machine as Stolen Property.

Appeal to the Rock county circuit court has been taken by James Chiro, Beloit Italian, on the decision of Judge John B. Clark of the Beloit municipal court on a restraining action in which he lost possession of a Ford automobile, claimed to be the property of Charles J. Neyens, 3549 McLean avenue, Chicago.

The Beloit police seized the car at Waverly beach several weeks ago, when it was found the motor number was altered to have been tampered with. Chiro shows a bill of sale from Chicago, for $300. Chiro claims the car was purchased on April 13 and Neyens claims action on April 13 for $30. Neyens says the automobile was stolen April 22.

The action is taken by Chiro against John W. Wolfe, agent for the insurance company in which it was insured.

The Janesville Wholesale Grocery has started action against Will C. Hudson and John Wright on a note.

RURAL CARRIERS HOME FROM MEETING

Rock County Rural Carriers' association delegates to the annual state convention at Wisconsin Rapids returned home by automobile Wednesday night. The convention was largely attended. Those from Rock county were H. A. Palmer and Henry Wilson, Janesville; J. C. Anderson, Madison; Roscoe Pontius, J. C. Stier, Beloit. All were delegates except Mr. Nysson. The next meeting will probably be held in Milwaukee, at which city will be held a conference of state postal workers next May.

Mr. Palmer said the convention was the finest he has ever attended. The address of welcome was given by the mayor. A feature of the convention was the baseball games, races and contests. Tuesday night a banquet was given with the main address by Congressman E. E. Brown.

OBITUARY

BELOIT PAIR HELD AT COUNTY JAIL

Awaiting trial on a statutory charge, Joseph Russo and Mrs. Katherine Fovagnolo of Beloit are in the Rock county jail in default of $1,000 and $500 bail. Their trial in Beloit municipal court is set for 9 a. m. Aug. 22. They were arrested on complaint of Mrs. Rossario Russo, wife of the man held.

Ear-Rings and Banks

Away back in the Dark Ages, a man would go to the jeweler's little shop to have a pair of earrings made for his wife, and he would go to the very same place if he had money (which was gold and silver) to leave for safe-keeping. It has taken centuries to develop the modern savings bank out of the jeweler's shop, but now we have progressed so far that we can boast that no Trust Company in Wisconsin has EVER been lost.

But even so, some folks still hide their savings in all sorts of places, where it may burn up, or be stolen, or be lost, or where it does not earn them a cent of interest.

Do you keep YOUR savings in such places, or in a Wisconsin Trust Company, like the Rock County Savings & Trust Co., where not a cent of savings has EVER been lost?

Austin; history of the Junior Missionary society, Miss Charlotte Clark; music, Men's Chorus; history of the congregation, praise, Psalter, 371; benediction, the pastor.

Thousands Cast Aside Old Laundry Soap

Probably you do not know that the ordinary laundry soap contains a large amount of "filler," including water glass made from sand. The women who do not know this are usually caused by "filler" in the soap. It is all soap, hence all cleaning power, and contains real olive oil and lard.

One chemist examined 27 other popular brands and found from 20% to 50% of every bar was "filler."

This is why fabric makers would not think of washing their fine materials with soap you wash them with after you buy them.

The fabric experts use olive oil soap because there is nothing like it to soften and preserve the fibers and colors, or bring out whiteness and freshness.

Imagine how water glass "filler" must cut your clothes when it gets ground into the threads in the wash, and then turns sharp and brittle when your clothes dry.

The thin spots, frayed edges and little holes that you think are caused by "wash wear" are usually caused by "filler" in the soap. You cannot see the fine, colorless particles that grind and cut the fabric.

"Filler" has no more cleaning power than sawdust. Hence, until you use GREEN ARROW, you cannot know how much easier it would be to wash with pure soap, and how many bars you would save.

Many women who have tried GREEN ARROW write letters like these:

"The work GREEN ARROW soap does is wonderful. I was able to do my washing with half the amount of soap that I generally use, with better results."—Mrs. C. B.

"GREEN ARROW goes farther than the soap I have been using. I like it better than other brands because it is better than other brands because it is easier on the hands, and the clothes have a sweeter odor."—Mrs. A. H. V.

BOYCE CASE TO BE TRIED AUGUST 23

The case of William and Ralph Boyce, co-defendants charged with the assault and battery of Jay Wiltsie, town of Plymouth, scheduled for trial in municipal court, Thursday morning, was postponed by Judge J. L. Maxfield until 1 a. m. Wednesday, Aug. 22. Over 100 people were present expecting to hear the testimony.

The Boyce men are charged with beating Wiltsie in Plymouth township as he was sitting near the side of a road watching his son pick berries.

William H. Dougherty appeared for Wiltsie and Owen Riland, Beloit, for the defendants.

SPREAD ASSESSMENTS FOR GALENA MAINS

The spreading of assessments for a new sanitary sewer and water main on Galena street between Center avenue and Washington street was completed by the Board of public works at a meeting Wednesday at the city hall. A meeting of the board to hear all protests regarding assessments was called for 2 p. m. Aug. 28.

The board heard informally a protest from Edward Donahue, protesting an assessment for sewer work on South Jackson street.

The board also discussed the condition of a sewer on Myrtle street and made arrangements to inspect the section as soon as possible so that certain action can be taken, in the near future.

There Will Be A DANCE in the INDIAN FORD HALL, FRIDAY EVE, AUG. 19. A good time is assured.

TWO RARE DISEASES

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN

Washington.—The recent death of a prominent official of the emergency fleet corporation of an inland town known as San Joaquin Valley disease focused the attention of the country for an instant on that strange and fatal malady. Of all the ills that flesh is heir to—or American flesh, at any rate—this one has the fewest legions; for no case of it in the fatal form has ever been known to develop outside that small section of California called the San Joaquin Valley. The disease, however, while rare, is not mysterious. It is caused by a germ which medical science has isolated and studied. The strange thing is that, though the disease is contagious, its spread is confined to a relatively thinly populated section of California. It is not quite fair to California to insist that the disease is peculiar to that fair region. San Joaquin Valley disease exists in two forms. One is the fatal kind, in which the germ attacks the victim's lungs, the symptoms of the illness being so nearly like those of tuberculosis that physicians have sometimes confused the two. The other is a milder type, in which the germ attacks the victim's skin. A number of cases of this latter type have been observed in districts in the vicinity of Chicago. Attacks of this type are not likely to end fatally.

It also seems reasonable to suppose that America has no monopoly of this affliction and that it may exist in countries in other parts of the world. In countries in which the medical vigil is less expert and thorough than in our own, it is quite possible that San Joaquin Valley disease, as we call it here, is annually claiming its victims. At any rate, one undeniable case of it has been reported in South America. It is entirely within possibility that the disease exists there but is identified as the better-known tuberculosis.

That a disease may be widespread in a population and still escape detection was demonstrated in our own American experience with pellagra. Only a few years ago this disease was supposed by scientists to be exceedingly rare in the United States. But as investigation progressed, the surprising fact developed that in reality it was one of the commonest of the diseases in the United States, thousands and thousands of Americans, particularly at certain seasons of the year, suffering from it, and many being slain by it.

The doctors of the Public Health Service in Washington have been studying San Joaquin Valley disease for twenty years. In that time they have had the germ under the microscope, have grown it in cultures outside the human body, have transplanted the infection to rabbits and guinea pigs, and have given to it a literature of considerable bulk. They have done everything but discover a specific cure for the disease. The cure, like that of tuberculosis, the germ of which has also been isolated, has eluded them. The victim of San Joaquin Valley disease usually dies after suffering for several years. A few have vitality enough to throw it off. Practically only adults seem to be subject to it.

The organism which causes the disease was not difficult to discover, for it is a vegetable form rather higher in the scale of life than bacteria, and being close to yeast spores in characteristics. These organisms are known as blastomycetes. Sunlight, fresh air, and invigorating food, to which the tuberculosis germ will often yield, do not seem to have much effect upon the blastomycetes. Whence these organisms come to afflict man nobody knows, but because the disease they cause is so sharply localized, the Public Health Service suspects that some species of animal living in the San Joaquin Valley is serving as a reservoir of the contagion.

The Public Health Service has so many more formidable enemies to human life to fight, that it is devoting no undue amount of attention to San Joaquin Valley disease. In the twenty years since the disease has been recognized, fewer than fifty cases have occurred in California. Consequently the people of the San Joaquin Valley, despite the malady, continue to be good life insurance risks and can go to bed of nights without worrying lest they be invaded by the infection which some branch of the native fauna is evidently carrying around.

Of much more concern to the Public Health Service lately is another disease now prevalent in the United States but little known to the public. This ailment is known as clonorchiasis, or liver fluke disease. Although there are hundreds and even thousands of cases of it now existing in this country, and the stage is apparently all set for it, not a single case of clonorchiasis has ever been known to develop in the United States. It is entirely imported by its victims, most of them of whom are Chinese and Japanese. The Public Health Service estimates that one of every 100 Chinese in the United States is suffering from it. Any alien suffering with clonorchiasis is barred by the quarantine regulations from entering the United States. But the disease is often hard to detect, and undoubtedly numerous sufferers are in.

The scientists studying clonorchiasis have revealed the fact that nature can outdo the most imaginative novelist when it comes to stretching the long arm of coincidence. Most interesting persons are aware of the curious life cycle of the malaria germ, which, after leaving the body of a carrier, must undergo a stage of existence in the body of a mosquito. The life cycle of the liver fluke, as the worm is called, which causes this disease, goes far beyond that of the malaria germ in complexity.

Suppose a fiction writer were to develop a detective story in which he would have the villain commit a murder in this way: The villain would implant a certain infection in a dog. Then he would arrange it that the eggs of the murderous organism should leave the dog and taken up residence in a small, thin snail would then be eaten by a fish, and not by any fish but a certain kind of trout. The trout must then be caught and eaten by the victim of the plot; but the victim must not cook the fish—he must eat it raw. At this point the editor to whom such a story was submitted would cease to read and would send it back to its author as preposterous.

Yet that is precisely what happens when a Chinese contracts clonorchiasis. The liver parasite, first in the form of its eggs, passes from dogs or men to other men, through the medium of two hosts, a certain aquatic snail and a trout of a certain species, in both of which intermediate stations it completes stages of its existence. If the fish were cooked, the worm would be destroyed. The Public Health Service has discovered that the snails and the fish of the requisite varieties exist together in this country. What aches the American people from an epidemic of clonorchiasis is the fact that they do not eat their trout raw.

Liver fluke disease is seldom fatal, but it is nevertheless incurable. Science has not yet discovered a poison that will kill the parasite without first killing the host.

or number of victims. More than 100,000 people died as a result of the typhoid and the news still comes of additions to the death list of August 2. Swatow is far away and we feel the tremendous extent of the disaster only when we halt and make an effort to picture in detail what must have happened in the hour of this horror.

If a man sets a building on fire or burns other property through carelessness with fire it is no more than just that he should be held responsible for the damage. Pennsylvania has such a law and under the Code Napoleon the loss of one through carelessness of another is made expensive for the guilty party.

Anyway, these cannot be called heathen days.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

THE LITTLE CLOTHES LINE.
The little clothes line by the kitchen door!
My mother stretched it once when I was young.
And there the garments which the baby wore
Each morning very carefully she hung.
Square bits of flannel fluttered in the breeze,
White stockings very delicate and small,
Long flowing dresses and the glad booties,
A little blanket and a knitted shawl.
Then came the day when mother took it down,
And we forgot what symbols fluttered there;
We'd grown to breast the current of the town,
To fight for conquest and to stand to care.
Ten years ago she smiled and said to me:
"I want a little clothes line by the door."
And there she hung for all the world to see
The various bits of raiment which he wore.
Even the ragman on his alley round
Knew by the symbols fluttering on that line,
That there a little baby would be found,
And day by day he saw that glorious sign.
Then boyhood came and called our babe away;
Muscles then strong and turned his cheeks to
Gave him the strength to run and romp and play.
And then she took the little clothes line down.
Today I sit beside her bed, and she Smiles the sweet smile of motherhood once more.
"When I get up again," she said to me,
"I'll want a little clothes line by the door."

PUBLIC SWIMMING POOLS

A swimming pool is just a common bath tub large enough for public use. The common or household bath tub is a holdover from the white enamel era of hygiene; a shower bath is the only real hygienic body washing equipment.

Among the diseases which may be communicated through the public swimming pool are eye inflammations, conjunctivitis and other conjunctival diseases, typhoid fever, and possibly some skin diseases. It is questionable whether venereal diseases are ever communicated or contracted through the use of a public swimming pool.

More important than either frequent change of water in the pool or attempts to disinfect the water, as a sanitary precaution, is strict enforcement of the rule requiring each person to take a shower bath immediately before entering the pool and to submit to medical examination at least once before being permitted to use the pool.

Aside from frequent change or constant flow of water in the pool, various methods of disinfection have been tried, the most efficient being ozonization, which is automatic. Chlorination does not make the water irritating to the eyes and nose as does chlorination. An examination of a sample of the pool water for coliform bacilli as for drinking water pollution, is the best test of the efficiency of the sanitation or disinfection of the pool. Such examinations are regularly made by health departments of cities or states.

If the water in the pool is not clear, filtration should be required, for a cloudy or dirty water is hard to disinfect even if the cloudiness or dirt is of harmless character.

Chlorination is as effective for the water of a swimming pool as it is for the drinking water of a city. The objection to this method of disinfection is that the chlorine compounds, which are used in excess, and on the other hand, in trying to avoid these disagreeable conditions insufficient chlorine is used, and the disinfection is inadequate.

Open air pools are much safer to use because the sunlight itself is a very powerful disinfectant. Yet, even in such a case, if the pool is in a place, used by all sorts of people indiscriminately, becomes polluted, and health authorities are compelled to prohibit bathing in the polluted water for a time.

In many small indoor pools the

THE COAL STRIKE SETTLEMENT

There is no reason why a settlement of the coal strike should not have been made on the terms finally agreed upon, at the very beginning of the strike. As it is, millions of dollars have been lost by the miners in wages, the country is facing a fuel famine, the operators have lost the least but that amounts to a large aggregate sum, while the industrial activity of the nation has been slowed down and wage earners in every part of the country have felt the pinch as a direct result of the strike.

As a result also of the coal strike there are thousands of men out of employment in industries and businesses which have no relation apparently with railroading. Therefore it is vitally necessary if we are not to go on as we are and continue to suffer loss, that the rail strike should be settled. It does not make so much difference to the public about the method or the final arrangements. As a general proposition it may be accepted that the sympathy of the public has been with the striking shopmen. That will continue so long as the strike is peaceable and there is an end to disorder and attacks on workers who are making it possible for freight to be moved and passengers to travel. As with coal so with the railroads. It took a long time—a needless time—to wipe out inconsequential matters and arrive at the one big place in negotiations, that the public had rights and these must be given attention. The railroad presidents can no longer defy public opinion and refuse to go as far as have the coal operators, in securing a settlement and a resumption of orderly operation of the roads.

We are not to have coal this winter in any great amount and with the removal of the agreement we will pay any price asked regardless, unless Mr. Hoover should be more than ordinarily drastic in his ruling. He has a trusteeship for the people in seeing that they are not made the victims of the profiteer.

If the government will use an Atlantic liner, which has a bar on board, to chase the ocean bootleggers the inconsistency will be complete.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By ROY K. MOULTON.

A LITTLE SLICE OF LIFE.

The last income tax return I secured the services of an expert. He knew the income tax thing upside down and inside out. And could fill out a blank. With one hand tied behind him. I had previously had trouble. And decided this time to be right. The expert filled it out neatly. And told me not to worry, and I didn't. But last week I got a letter from the Washington office saying that I still owed fifty-three bucks. The exemptions were all wrong. And the surtax was out of kilter. And the total income was shy. Outside of that, my expert had done a good job. Now I have another letter saying that an intensive audit shows that I still owe something. Besides the $53 first mentioned. They will let me know later. Just how much more it is. I am so glad that I got an expert. To fix up my return that. Next year I am going to do it alone. And let the minister. Fall where they will. I have made it up myself. Several times, and the most I have ever had to pay afterward through my mistake, through my error, through my carelessness. If you want a thing Done right, do it yourself. Even if you do it wrong.

It begins to look as though the next senate will be slightly anti-foreign in spots.

Any fool can make a woman talk, but it takes a very clever man to make her listen.

Q. What is the record of consecutive wins in the American and National leagues? J. W. N.

A. Twenty-six is the greatest number of consecutive games won by a major league baseball team. This record was made by the New York National league team in 1916. The record in the American league was 19. This record was made by the Chicago team in 1906.

Q. Did Bell patent the telephone as a process or device? J. F. A.

A. When Alexander Graham Bell was granted a patent on the invention it was described in the application and specifications as an instrument for the transmission of sound by electric currents. This record was made by the Chicago team in 1906.

Q. What are the minerals on Mohammedan mosques? H. R. F.

A. The minerals of Mohammedan mosques are the towers from which the officer whose business it is, issues the Muezzin call to prayer. The towers, which all true Mohammedans face toward the east and engage in devotion.

Q. Are spores classed as seeds? K. F. A.

A. Spores are not true seeds, but are the means of reproduction of a great number of plants, such as ferns and the various kinds of mushrooms are the most important cultivated plants which depend on spores for reproduction.

Q. Give a list of conductors and insulators? J. R. A.

A. Among the good conductors are silver, copper, aluminum, zinc, brass, platinum, iron, nickel, tin, lead, antimony, mercury, and bismuth. State, oil, porcelain, dry leather, dry paper, silk, rubber, porcelain, glass and dry air are insulators or so-called non-conductors.

S. Did other countries try to eliminate the telephone? J. R. A.

Regarding Mistakes

Everyone makes mistakes; that is why an eraser is placed on the end of a lead pencil. A public service corporation is only a group of human beings. The millennium has not arrived. We can only do our best from day to day and, while we are doing it, would ask that we receive the same consideration given to the smaller merchant who now and then makes a mistake.

Who's Who Today

MRS. A. F. CRAWFORD.

"There is no need to grow old, mentally, at least," declares Mrs. A. F. Crawford, whose enrollment as a student at the Columbia University summer school at the age of seventy-one has drawn the attention of the country. Fast the allotted three score and ten Mrs. Crawford, a college graduate and Vassar student fifty years ago, and mother of six children, has decided she must return to school to keep mental alert and "up with the times."

Mrs. Crawford's home is in Greensboro, N. C. She graduated from the Greensboro college for women in 1889 and then studied a year at Vassar. She then taught school two years before her marriage to a Methodist minister. From then until her husband's death, she was a devoted wife and mother of five sons and a daughter—family of six children.

Three of her five sons are teachers. One of them, L. W. Crawford, is assistant director of the summer session at Columbia. She is now a proud grandmother and lives with her daughter and two granddaughters.

Housekeepers Should Save Their Strength

There are two ways in which the time and strength of the housekeeper may be saved. First, by thinking thought as to the way she uses her strength, and second, by making use of labor-saving devices.

A little study and practical direction along this line may easily make the difference between a tired, over-worked housekeeper, and one who has some time and energy left for reading and recreation after the day's work is done. The Department of Agriculture has issued a splendid booklet which tells how to make a dressmaker's work, a drainer that does away with the drying of dishes, a service rack, an endless refrigerator, a shower bath, and an evaporator.

Our Washington Bureau will secure a copy of this helpful publication for any one who sends two cents in stamps for return postage. In filling out the coupon print name and address or be sure to write plainly.

Don't Make This Mistake

Don't think, because it takes only a bucket of coal a day to operate one of the various kinds of coal water heaters, that coal is cheaper than gas for this purpose.

Figure up what a bucket of coal costs. You will be surprised to find how much more expensive it is to obtain inadequate hot water service this way as compared with unlimited hot water service by means of gas fuel. See the gas water heaters on display at our Show Rooms.

WHEN THE FOLKS WILL COME TO JAMESVILLE

Two years ago the Chamber of Commerce put on a Community picnic that has since stood as the biggest event of the last several years, but another now planned and under way, the Harvest Festival for September 22 and 23, is quite apt to put that picnic far in the shade. Here is a good place to get together in and for one common purpose. We have few enough of these large civic events. Janesville, like all other cities in the center of an agricultural community, must depend largely on the outside trade for successful business. And this city is therefore the natural host on occasions like the Harvest Festival. There should be from time to time less celebrations of historical events. It is none too soon to prepare for the festival in the latter part of September. Janesville ought in all reason to be epic and span in a public as well as in a private way. The streets should be clean and in repair, stores in order, homes and gardens attractive and all in keeping with the reputation of the city as one of the best and most pleasing municipalities in Wisconsin.

No sooner is the coal strike settled than the mercury begins to climb to the top. Such is the innate meanness of inanimate things.

THE DEMOCRATIC TEST

The contest for places on the election ticket under the primary for democratic candidates has had little attention from the public. Nevertheless there is a sharp fight on between two candidates for governor in that party and one of them, Karl Mathe, is making a speaking tour in which he is handling the issues with more than ordinary care. Mr. Mathe is a scholarly gentleman and his attitude on the prohibition question is clear and plain. He was named as a dry while Bentley, of La Crosse, was selected as a confessed wet. Other places on the democratic ticket are uncontested and in many of the counties, like Rock, there is no county ticket. The vote in the primary will undoubtedly be small as the contest of the republicans against the Progressive Socialists on the republican ticket will attract many democrats to the republican primary. But it is well to keep in mind that in Mr. Mathe there is a good candidate in the minority party—clean and who might make an excellent governor.

Why not make it the Brotherhood of man and consider the rights of others as well?

HOROSCOPE

THURSDAY, AUGUST 17, 1922

The stars incline, but do not compel. Contrary influences have power today, according to astrology. While Jupiter and Neptune are in benefic aspect Mars is strongly adverse. The rule is most favorable to business and fortunes, but has gained from the position of Mars in the second house is read as presaging increase.

All who desire to be leaders probably feel the impulse toward great activity at this time. There is a sign indicating military and naval movements on the part of the United States.

During this direction of the stars there may be a feeling of instability that permeates all activities and has a depressing effect. The stars declare that race conclusions is to be more and more definite and that the white race is moving toward a debacle, far off, but certain. Most extraordinary weather is forecasted and many violent storms will mark the next few weeks. Some sort of an accident at sea will cause heavy loss of life within 30 days, it is prognosticated. The position of Mars in the second house is read as presaging increase.

In the midst of the war? J. R. E.

A. France, England and Germany spent much time and energy on the elimination of lice, since they were found to be carriers of typhus and trench fever. Delousing stations had been established and conditions greatly improved before American troops crossed the ocean.

Q. Where is the Desert of Sin? U. H.

A. This is a name given to the land to the south of Judea.

Q. Can a person be compelled to make an oath which he has been elected? T. E. A.

A. There is no such law in this country, but under the common law all citizens in peace as well as law owe their allegiance to the state when required, hence after being duly elected may be required to take oath and qualify themselves as public officers. The only defenses are illegal election or appointment, legal disqualification to hold office, or proof that the office is incompatible.

Q. Why will some cream whip while some will not? T. E. A.

A. The kind and cream, its age, its butterfat content, and its temperature influence the whipping quality of cream. Cream to whip well should be very cold, from 24 to 48 hours old, and contain at least 30 per cent butterfat.

Ham Prices Are Down

Ham—Boiled, Baked (Hot or Cold), Broiled, or Fried—is one of the most appetizing and savory foods that the market offers.

The wholesale price of ham is fifteen to twenty per cent lower than it was six weeks ago.

The U. S. Dept. of Agriculture in an announcement dated June 19, 1922, in referring to vitamins found in meat said, "Various cuts of meat were tried, and in every instance pork was found to be relatively rich in vitamins. Pork tenderloin, fresh ham, smoked ham, and pressed boiled ham were tested and the results were much the same with all of them."

Swift's Premium Hams are always of a uniform high standard of quality, regardless of price. A special cure of sugar and salt, and smoking over hardwood fires impart a flavor that has made "Premium" Ham the world's standard.

Summer time is ham time. Insist on having "Swift's Premium"—see the blue identification tag.

A Serial Story of the Colorado Mines

By Courtney Ryley Cooper.
Copyright by Little, Brown & Co.

SYNOPSIS
At Thornton Fairchild's death his son Robert learns there has been a dark deed in the past which has caused him suffering. The secret is hinted at in a conversation with his father. The child, which also informs Robert, is now owner of a mining claim in Colorado and is a lawyer.
CHAPTER II—Benjamin tells Robert his claim, a little over a mile from Denver. He also warns him against a certain man. "Squire" says, "I'll be a lawyer. Robert decides to go to Ohio."
CHAPTER III
On the road to Ohio from Denver Fairchild meets a girl, apparently in a frenzy of haste to change a tire on her auto. When she has finished she looks at him and says, "I'm a miner. I'm a bandit. Fairchild, bewitched, misleads them to the direction the girl had taken."

There was a moment of awkward silence as Fairchild gazed intently into his glass, then with a feeling of queer excitement, set it on the table, counter and turned. Anita Richmond was approaching—in a stranger-like manner—a ticket of some sort held before her. "Pardon me," she began, "but would you care to buy a ticket to the Old Times dance? It's a sort of municipal thing, gotten up by the bureau of mines—to celebrate the return of all-vivians." "Duh—in a crowd I'm not much on dancing."

"You don't have to be. Nobody'll dance much—except the old-fashioned ones. You see, everybody's supposed to represent people of the days when things were booming around here. There'll be a fiddle orchestra and a dance caller and everything. It's a sort of a bar—but of course there'll only be imitation liquor. But," she added with quick emphasis, "there'll be a lot of things to eat—real things and fudge and everything like that, and everybody in the costume of 30 or 40 years ago. Don't you want to buy a ticket?—It's the last one I've got," she added prettily.

"When's it to be?"
"A week from tomorrow night. Are you going to be there that long?"
She realized the slip of her tongue and colored. Fairchild, however, recovered, reached into a pocket and carefully fingered the bills there. Then, with a quick motion, he drew them forth, he covered a ten-dollar bill with a one-dollar note and thrust them forward.

"Yes, I'll take the ticket,"
She handed it to him, thanked him, and reached for the money. He took it, and she saw that the ten-dollar bill revealed itself and she hastily thrust it toward him as though to return money paid by her. He took it, and she realized that he had seen it and with a quick motion, he drew it forth, he covered a ten-dollar bill with a one-dollar note and thrust them forward.

CHOOSING A SKIN BLEACH

There have been so many inquiries regarding skin bleaches recently, that I feel there is need for enlightenment concerning these lotions.

There are many ways of bleaching the skin, just as there are for bleaching fabrics; but only the simpler ones can be depended upon not to prove injurious. If a comparison could be drawn between the various materials the former would be found much more sensitive to the action of bleach than the latter. It is surprising how many women there are who would not mind the bleaching of their skin, but who are afraid of the action of the bleaching material.

Merck's L-1, if your health is good, your falling hair should be treated with a pair of tonics several times each week. This is a daily massage of the scalp. Impaired health will also create scalp troubles, and in such cases the hair will always feel the bad effects thereof, despite local treatment.

Amber-Cream from cow's milk is never used on the face for a massage. You may use either olive or almond oil on the skin. At this season of the year olive oil, taken as a food, sometimes proves too heating. This oil does not affect constipation to any extent.

Whipped Eggs and Onions—Hard cook the eggs allowing one egg for each serving. Cook medium sized onions until soft, but not until they fall apart, allowing four onions for each serving. Make a very light seasoning with salt and add finely chopped parsley. Butter crumbs by melting one-fourth cup of butter and stirring into a cup of crumbs. The crumbs are now ready to assemble. Butter a casserole, cut the eggs in halves, place in the buttered onions and pour over both the parsley sauce. Cook with the buttered crumbs and the onions in a moderate oven until heated through and the crumbs are brown. Cheese, chopped pepper and milk to stir the yolks and carefully mix butter in stiffly whipped cream. Place the mixture in a frying pan or in a roasting pan, over the mixture and cook over a low flame until a golden brown on the bottom. Place in a moderate oven for five minutes. Place the mixture in a frying pan or in a roasting pan, over the mixture and cook over a low flame until a golden brown on the bottom. Place in a moderate oven for five minutes.

Spanish Green Olive Dressing—Season with olive oil, salt, pepper, three sprays parsley, chopped; one green pepper, chopped; one canned pineapple, chopped; one-half teaspoon chopped chives, or a little onion juice; twelve Spanish green olives, stoned and finely chopped. Method: Mix all ingredients in a bowl. Serve on head lettuce or celery and cabbage.

A dependable device for looking the lower jaw when the upper jaw is open is easily made in this way: Bore a hole about three-sixteenths inch in diameter diagonally through the lower jaw. The hole is a straight piece of No. 9 iron wire, the end of which is bent over to form a handle. It is impossible to raise a window sash that is locked in this simple way. Screens and, either, whether open or closed, may be securely locked by the same means.

A SEWING HINT

When sewing on tricotelle hold the material in a heap in your lap. It is laid out flat it is very apt to stretch.

THIS WILL BENEFIT JANSVILLE WOMEN

Stomach trouble in women is often due to retained waste matter. This waste matter, the stomach for months and causes gas on the stomach and sour stomach. The old poisonous accumulation should be cleaned out with simple buckhorn bark, glycerine, etc., and alkali. In Alder-ka. Acting on BOTH upper and lower bowel. Alder-ka removes matter you never thought was in your system. EXCELLENT for gas on the stomach and chronic constipation. Guards against appendicitis. McChue and Buss Drug Co., 14 S. Main street.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON.

Letters May Be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: My home is in another town but I have been visiting here several times. I met a very nice gentleman whom I love dearly. He says he loves me also and we are engaged.

I went home a few months ago and he did not answer my last letter, but when I came back he said he did not get the last letter and that he answered all he received from me. My sister does not believe him and says I should not keep company with him.

I am of a quiet disposition and he is also a quiet man and he seems to love me. Do you think he does?

He is in another town working at present and he said he was coming to visit to me when he got there, but I have not heard as yet. Should I break our engagement?

I have no engagement ring. He said he was going away where he could make more money to prepare for our home. Please help me.

BROWN HAIR

It looks very much as if the boy were deceiving you. I would strongly advise you to break your engagement because if the young man loved you he would show it in a different way and would keep his word to you. I feel as your sister does that he received the letter you wrote but did not get around to answer it. Instead of telling the truth he pretended he had not heard from you.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am 23 years old and was married when I was 15 to a man 20 years older than I. I have never loved him, but he loves me. I am alone all the time, not seeing him for months.

I have fallen in love with a man of my own age and he loves me. Now he wants me to get a divorce to marry him. I am puzzled and am afraid it is wrong. I let him leave me thinking I had not loved him in order to give him up, but my heart aches for him and I am very unhappy. Should I give up the one I love and go away, or should I do as he wishes? I have a child to think of. I want to do what is right as soon as I can.

ANXIOUS

Since your husband goes away and leaves you months, he would probably be very glad to have a divorce. I would advise you to talk the matter over with him and if he agrees, separate. Of course divorce will be unfortunate for the child, but I cannot see that it will be any worse than the condition that exists at present.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: When one tells me I am looking well this summer, I feel that the person or persons who told me that person or persons are wrong.

FREEDOM: Your thought of shooting your former husband is terrible. I would think for one minute that he will go unpunished just because you do nothing to make him suffer as you suffered. There is a higher power who has made man inviolable. Suffering allows wrong doing sometime and somewhere; it may not come at once or even in this life, but it will surely come. Shut your eyes and think of the pain and horror that will come to your husband if you have her can crowd out bitterness if you will only let it.

I think when your husband married you he loved you in his way. If you love or your little one and the joy of having her can crowd out bitterness if you will only let it.

To Make Hairs Vanish From Face, Neck or Arms

(Beauty Culture)

Keep a little powdered talcote heavily and when hairy growths appear make a paste with some of the powder and a little water, then spread over hairy surface. After two or three minutes rub off with a soft cloth and it will be entirely free from hair or bristles. This simple treatment is untailing, but care should be exercised to be sure and get genuine talcote, otherwise you may be disappointed.

ONE TRICK A NIGHT

"MAKES TABLE TALK BRIGHT"

This is a most interesting little trick, and as it is only known to a few people it makes a puzzling diversion.

Ask someone to throw three dice on the table and to add the spots which turn up. After he has done this, tell him to turn the dice directly over and to add the spots on the bottoms. Then tell him to total the sums of the tops and bottoms.

Preceding to read his thoughts, say that the sum will be 21.

Without doubt you will always be correct, because the opposite spots on dice always total seven.

Radlessness constitute the Real Power over men. 30 is only a threshold. When will we teach women this? When we begin to believe it ourselves, that's when. But that will be a long, long time.
